To Whom It May Concern:

On December 26, 2007, I fell off a stepladder at work and crushed my left wrist. The break was so severe the only way to repair it was by having surgery and having an external fixture attached to the outside of my wrist and two very sharp screws drilled into my hand. One screw was drill into the bone just below my thumb with three inches of it pushed at an angle into the first three knuckles, and the other screw in the middle of my arm. This fixture stayed in for 2 months. Because of the swelling and the screws, I could not move my arm or hand at all. Due to the lack of movement, I lost all range of motion in my fingers and wrist. When the fixture was removed, my Dr. performed a procedure called M.U.I (Manipulation under Anastasia) where he tried to break up the scar tissue on all my joints that had developed from the trauma of the break and the lack of movement. This procedure was more painful than the actual break. After the M.U.I., the swelling and the pain were unbelievable. I began Physical Therapy and continued that for 7 months. I went 5 days a week for 3 'A to 4 hours a day. I was in so much pain I cried through almost every session. It was not progressing at all. My hand looked dead, it was a bluish purple in color and was still severely swollen. Because this was a worker's comp type injury, I was at the mercy of their insurance company and they wanted to be done with this injury. They fired my Dr. and sent me to their hand specialist. In July 2008 on my first visit to him, he felt like the Physical Therapy was not helping and keeping it swollen. This next visit he closed my case. I was in shock! They were leaving me like this. They told me the pain and swelling was all in my head! Anyway, in September of 2008 a friend at work referred me to Dr. Yung Yeh and his wife Dr. Jane. By this point, I had several new problems that had arisen and was not sure which ailment they could help me. He started with my wrist and hand first. The very first day, I felt a difference. The second day I felt instant relief. My fingers and wrist were moving more freely and the pain in all honestly was 75% better. By the third day, the life and the color had come back to my hand. This was AMAZING to everyone. My hand will never be completely normal, but it only took 2 weeks of treatment for it to be 100% better than it was after 3 surgeries, 7 months of severe pain, and 7 months of painful Physical Therapy.

I truly believe that if I had gone to Dr. Yeh and Dr. Jane right after surgery, I would not have suffered the way that I did. I am very grateful to both of them for the care they gave me. I have since referred them to other friends and every one of them have been as amazed as I was. Thank you Dr. Yeh and Dr. Jane, I will always be grateful to you both.

Sincerely,

Jodie.

To Whom It May Concern,

I was diagnosed with breast cancer in 2000 and in 2003, with metastatic cancer to the bones. When I received the metastatic diagnosis, I was told there was no hope of survival and that my life would be greatly limited. I have researched and found many therapies that have allowed me to continue to survive and do what many doctors have said was impossible. Due to the spread of cancer throughout my skeleton, after two surgeries to repair my right eye of a macular cyst and then a cataract as well as a paralyzed pupil, my eyesight continued to decline. I was sent to specialists for the surgeries and then to a Neurological Ophthalmologist, Dr. Nick Hogan, of the Astin Center at UT Southwest Medical Center in Dallas, Texas.

After much testing, including another MRI, it was found that there is sclerotic tissue in the back of the right eye due to the spread of cancer in the bone behind the eye. This scar tissue impinged on the optic nerve and limited my eyesight to 20/200 and was steadily becoming worse. Dr. Hogan said that "no fix was available" and his concern was that I may lose all vision in the right eye.

I remembered having taken my daughter who had broken her back and had surgery which created more pain, to see Dr. Yung C. Yeh and his wife, Jane Chen-O Y eh, five years ago. Somehow, they did the incredible and relieved my daughter of intense pain. I wondered if they may be able to help me as well. I spoke with a friend who is in Veterinary School at Texas A&M and she recommended I try acupuncture as she had just taken a course in that subject at school and was very impressed with its ability to accomplish what Western medicine could not.

Before I started treatment with Dr. Yeh, I had little peripheral vision and no ability to see anything clearly with the right eye. After consulting with Dr. Yeh, he told me he would do research to find the best approach possible to help me. After the first session in which both he and his wife participated, my peripheral vision was back! To say that I was overjoyed is an understatement.

Previously looking out of the right eye was much like looking out of a long dark tunnel. To have my peripheral vision restored was a gift that I will never forget. Not only has my peripheral vision been restored, but I have much improved function of the pupil.

I live an hour away from Dr. Yeh's office in Richardson, Texas so that I drive two hours each day for treatment that has improved both the clarity of my vision as well as allows me to experience peripheral vision again. I am an educated woman who has done tremendous amounts of research in my journey to stay alive and remain active. I have never encountered anyone as dedicated to the well-being of their patients as Dr. Yung C. Yeh and his wife, Jane Chen-O Yeh.

Their commitment to the healing and restoration of the body of their clients has been an amazing observation. In a world where we are often treated as just another number, their commitment to find answers and their extensive training and commitment to further their knowledge by ongoing education is a rare gift.

I have an understanding that there are rarely any "quick fixes" in this world. The ongoing progress I see each day in my eyesight is proof to me that their work is of the highest caliber and helps me to have complete trust that they know exactly how often I need treatment and for what length of time.

Their kindness and dedication to help what my highly respected Neurological Ophthalmologist said were not fixable, is so appreciated.

Being told so many times throughout my journey of cancer that I was "not fixable" has allowed me to find the treasures of other schools of medicine such as acupuncture. It is my hope that anyone who reads this letter will have an understanding that there are methods other than traditional Western medicines that have validity and are worthy of being experienced.

I would welcome any phone calls that would help others find the miracle of a person like Dr. Yeh who is both a Medical Doctor, M.D. as well as a highly skilled acupuncturist and his wife, Jane.

There are far too few doctors who are as dedicated to helping others and who could be referred to as what we once called healers as Dr. Yeh.

RE: HSP (Henoch Schonlein Purpura) severe stomach pain

I am writing to share my relief and gladness about Dr. Jane Yeh.

About mid-July of this year my three-year-old son started complaining of stomach pain. The pediatrician believed it was a virus, and suggested ibuprofen for the pain. A week later, the stomach pain was no better. More ibuprofen, which started wearing off before the six hours in between doses. We began alternating Tylenol with ibuprofen, so every three hours he would receive pain reliever that still only provided about 2 hours of relief.

He would lie on the floor, clutch his stomach and cry. "My tummy hurts.' He did not eat much. He started to complain of pain in his knees and his groin area. We took two trips to the emergency room in the middle of the night, because the complaining turned to screaming in pain and vomiting. The first visit the doctors could find nothing wrong, though they took x-rays and blood tests and urine tests. They recommended we take him to the local children's hospital.

We took him in to see a children's specialist. The doctor performed an endoscopy to see if there was any evidence of ulcer, celiac, or other allergies. He took a biopsy of my three-year-old's stomach tissue. Found nothing. Performed an ultrasound. Found nothing.

Soon after he had a bout of screaming awful pain in the middle of the night. Off to another emergency room, this time the local children's hospital, where they gave our son morphine for the pain until they could figure out what was going on. More x-rays, more blood tests, more urine tests. Another ultrasound to check if his bowels or intestines were folded inside. Nothing there either. The doctor spotted a purply spotted rash on his backside. She said it might be Henoch Schonlein Purpura, or "HSP" for short, which is characterized by such a rash and sometimes severe stomach pain. It is a condition where blood vessels become inflamed (or "vasculitis"), resulting in the rash on the skin and, in the case of stomach pain, inflammation of blood vessels in the stomach lining which is like having a "stomach migraine." It is supposed to be a temporary condition which children often recover from, though some people on the internet told stories of dealing with the condition for at least two years. Scary stuff, as we did not want to medicate our son with NSAID's every day for two years! (NSAID is short for non-steroidal anti-inflammatory drug-examples of these are ibuprofen and aspirin. There has been much coverage in the news lately about the damaging effects of long-term NSAID use.)

Took him back to the pediatrician, who confirmed that my son's symptoms did indeed match those of HSP. Unfortunately, there is nothing they can do except give him steroids for the inflammation. We did not know what else to do. One week of steroids lasted about a week and a half for pain relief. Then the pain was back. The doctor prescribed a second round of steroids. We were uncomfortable with the amount of medication we were putting into our three-year-old boy, but we had no choice. It was either that or moaning pain every day, every three hours. The second round of steroids had mixed results. I started doing research online and found one mention of how acupuncture seemed to help. We found Dr. Yeh online and were encouraged that she specialized in hopeless cases, since we definitely were more than scared at this point that our son might be getting worse instead of better, what with all the medication, very poor sleep and little ability to eat.

He was still on steroids when we brought him in to see Dr. Yeh. We were hopeful when she said she could help. Dr. Yeh said that the method she used worked best if we came in every day for 30 days. So, we committed to that without question, even though we lived 45 minutes away from her office, because it was so much better than the alternative. From day one, his intermittent pain ceased. We were able to reduce the amount of steroids gradually, and take him off them completely much sooner than if he had finished the bottle. He has not had any troublesome pain since. (His rash, which was very mild, cleared up in the first week or so.)

I think some people might say he was getting over the HSP anyway, or that the second round of steroids finally did the trick. I do not believe this is the case, since the change from intermittent pain to no pain occurred with our first visit to Dr. Yeh, and the pain did not return after that day.

We are so thankful for a medication-free solution to this terrible pain. We continued to see Dr. Yeh a few times per month after our 30 days, just to make sure the method was still holding. There has been no evidence of HSP since.

I would greatly encourage anyone suffering from HSP to try Dr. Yeh at Dallas Acupuncture Clinic.

Sincerely,

H. Milo

To the Ones with No Hope:

Hello,

My wife and I started getting treated with Dr Yeh in September of 2011. The main reason why we started visiting them was due to my Wife's (Alice) feet problems, but also for her PCOS issues. I have a co-worker that had the same issue and their treatment was working wonders for her, so we decided to try them.

Dr. Yeh helped us get pregnant with our first child in 2012, and now she is a healthy and beautiful 4-year-old girl. (Middle one in the pic below)

A little over 2 years ago (2014) we decided to leave Dallas and move our family to El Paso, to be closer to our extended family. This was a very important and impacting move, since it was going to put us away from our own personal miracle worker Dr Yeh. We tried before we left to start the treatments but it wasn't the right time. The move happened in mid 2014, by mid 2016 we were getting ready to hang up our gloves and look at adoption once again. My wife's plantar fasciitis was starting to get progressively worse, so we decided to travel to Dallas (August 2016) for a full week to get her feet treated, and at the same time get her PCOS under control. At this point we had already made up our minds that another child may have not been in our plans anymore, so we were ready to enjoy each other and our little Ariana. Alice had been in infertility medicine (Clomid) for too long and it was time for her to relax and enjoy.

Our trip to Dallas was a normal one. We were very happy to go see Dr Yeh and for Alice's feet to feel better. It was an immediate relief, her feet and her body relaxed and she started feeling a lot better only after 3 or 4 treatments. Without really thinking about it and noticing it, her PCOS was also normalizing and she felt some changes in her ovaries. It was time to come back to El Paso after a week-long of treatments. We really didn't notice anything too different except that Alice was very relaxed and with very minimum feet pain. Two weeks later, almost the end of August, Alice starts feeling a little “weird”. She asks me if I can go and get her a pregnancy test...to what I answer, you are not even close to having your monthly visitor yet why would you need one? She replied, I feel something weird and I want to make sure it is nothing to be worried about.

The results of course were positive... 4 times over. We made an appointment with her Ob-Gyn and by early September we had a confirmation from her doctor. We are now in our 18th week and so far so good.

THANK YOU, DR YEH!!!!

Acupuncture is no placebo! It really works!

Dr. Jane Yeh is a miracle worker. 8 years ago, I began having a myriad of frustrating symptoms. I went to several MDs and received several diagnoses - fluid in my inner ear, chronic fatigue, and sinusitis. I underwent sinus surgery which helped with my sinus problems but post-surgery, my facial pain was only one side and extremely painful. My sinus surgeon scoped my sinuses and said they were clear and there was no reason for my pain.

After some internet research, I realized my face pain was trigeminal neuralgia. Even slightly cool air was painful. Pain medicine helped but made me feel out of it. I was considering surgery but after reading a scientific study online that acupuncture helps with nerve pain, I found Dr. Yeh's clinic.

During the treatment, my ear began to lose pressure. Imagine your ear constantly switching pressure to the point of pain (but being unable to pop) for 8 years, and then suddenly, after receiving one treatment, within hours, it's completely normal. My left sinus drained the rest of the day, even though it had previously felt clear, and within one day, I was 75% pain free. I am still not sure how it works, but with continued treatment, I am confident, I will be pain-free.

Book an appointment fast, because I am telling everyone my story, and her schedule is going to be full!

Dr. Yeh has been a gift from God to me.

October 2016

In 2014, I had right hip replacement surgery. When the pain still persisted, in 2015 another surgery was performed to remove a bursa sac. Still no relief and after seeing 3 other doctors, they finally said that I had bone bursitis and I would have to just live with the pain as he wrote me prescriptions for hydrocodone. After a while, I decided to stop the pain meds and the intense pain returned.

I began to research for an alternate way to treat the pain. That is when I found Dr. Yeh. He disagreed with the doctors' diagnosis and said it was scar tissue causing the pain and that he could help me.

When I first saw Dr. Yeh, I could barely take more than 50 steps without intense pain. I began my treatments at the end of July and now in October, I am virtually pain free.

I am so glad that I found him and I highly recommend Dr. Yeh.

Doctors are not always right and in my case Dr. Yeh is proof of that!!

I have had tooth pain for almost two years. I have seen two different dentists, an oral surgeon, who did an unnecessary root canal, an ENT, who removed a polyp from my sinuses and a neurologist, who did an MRI and put me on pills for nerve pain. None of these procedures or professionals offered me any kind of relief from the pain in my mouth. As a last resort for relief, I decided to try acupuncture. Dr. Yeh was recommended to me by a close friend who has had good success with her in the past. Dr. Yeh evaluated me and assured me this was something she could help me with. It took approximately six weeks of treatment -twice a week but I finally am pain free. Thank you Dr. Yeh for doing what no other medical professional could do. I recommend acupuncture and especially Dr. Yeh without reservation.

Recommendation for Dr. Jane Yeh at the Dallas Acupuncture Clinic in Richardson.

I have been going for treatment for an injury to my left knee from a fall off my horse at the end of January 2012. I had traditional medicine look at the knee right after the fall. No breaks, but it was still swollen and I was taking medication to help with the pain. However, it was still painful.

A friend told me about Dr. Jane Yeh and I decided to go to the clinic. I was taking treatment every day for a few weeks, and things were getting much better. I was able to walk better, and bend the knee. Finally at the beginning of June, I was able to take a motorcycle trip to Atlanta and back. This was over two thousand miles and I rode this in one week.

I would recommend Dr. Jane Yeh for the treatment of pain and release it. I will continue her treatment.

Wow, where do I start? First, let me just say that Dallas Acupuncture will become your second home if you are in need of help. Jane is the sweetest woman; very funny, caring, and intelligent. Additionally, her practice is extremely affordable with OR without insurance. Parking is easy and the environment is very soothing.

I was living in Texas temporarily and had 5 stress fractures in both of my tibias (shins). Nothing was helping. Everyone told me not to go to an acupuncturist because it wouldn't help. I found Jane at Dallas Acupuncture, and from there, everything changed. She told me that she helps everyone, especially the "hopeless".

Yes, it was a bone problem, but the acupuncture and Jane's "special technique" released the muscles and knots in my legs. Jane's help has prevented me from having to get metal plates screwed to my bones. I am so glad to have met her. If you have a bone issue, come here, she will relieve the pain, her skills are no joke!

I lost my sense of smell and taste last spring. I am 69 years old and from everything I researched, I thought it might eventually come back, but I did not have much hope. After several months, I came to see Dr. Jane. She told me it was not caused by all the antibiotics I had taken, but it was my sinuses. I had several treatments with Dr. Jane, and I can now smell and taste everything. It was a slow comeback but worth doing because it seems to continue to get better.

I am so grateful to Dr. Jane. She told me that the treatment would take time, but it would restore my sense of smell and taste, and she was right. I am so glad that I found Dr. Jane. Thank you.

To whom it concerns,

I am a 63-year-old male who began to have symptoms of overactive bladder for the last several years. I consulted with an Urologist and he prescribed a series of drugs to try to help with the problem. I was not able to tolerate the side effects of the drugs however and had to stop taking them after several months. After the drugs failed to help the doctor tried a treatment called PTNS which involved a needle in the ankle and an electric pulse pad on the bottom of the foot. The PTNS helped but the effect proved to be short lived and required treatment every week for 12 weeks.

I consulted Dr. Yeh because I have had good results with acupuncture in the past for other issues. The treatments with Dr. Yeh have had very good results so far. I am pleased that I am able to resume a normal life and not have to stress about the overactive bladder. The acupuncture treatments have no negative side effects like the drugs and the results are superior to the expensive PTNS treatments.

I would recommend Dr. Yeh for someone who has had a similar problem with overactive bladder.

Dear Dr. Yeh,

I came to you for treatment of my TMJ (Temporomandibular Joint Disorder) in December 2014. I had been suffering from this problem for a number of years and had been receiving acupuncture from another practitioner, but was not really seeing any relief. The main reason I changed acupuncture doctors was because of insurance, you were on my insurance and the other doctor was not, but I am very glad I switched.

You told me that this would need to be a long-term treatment. After all, it took many years for my jaw to become very sore and twisted. It seemed to me from a video tape I did at work that I was talking out of the side of my mouth, and I was because of the twisting of my jaw. I decided to commit to the treatment and follow your advice that this was going to take a bit of time to correct.

It turned out I saw you, on average, at least once or twice a week during 2015. We decided in December of 2015 that we were probably finished and had addressed the problem. I have not seen you since the end of December 2015 and can say I am very pleased with the results of your treatment.

Several things make me able to say that my TMJ has been addressed. First, my night guard, created by my dentist, no longer fits my mouth. It was fitted when my jaw was still twisted. In fact, I no longer wear a night guard and do not grind my teeth at night any more. Second, I can go to my dentist and open my mouth without the pain that I had before. Third, when I talk, I am no longer speaking out of the side of my mouth. Finally, I do not have the pain or fatigue in my jaw from chewing when I eat like I did before.

I can also say that during 2015, you treated a couple of other issues I had. I have chronic back pain due to a condition probably present since birth. You are able to address that problem quickly and I don't need another treatment for 2 to 3 months. You also helped me with issues I was having with my feet. I have yet to experience that problem again.

Thank you for your help with the TMJ and other issues. I will continue to see you when I need a booster!

My name is David Podany Sr. and I am a 64 year old man. Six years ago I had a fall and shattered both of my heels. The doctors put my feet back together with 20 screws and plates. The pain was unbearable and I had them remove the plates and screws after the bones healed. I had two more operations and over 40 rehab visits. The scar tissue and stiffness has still caused me much pain. I met Dr. Yung Yeh and went through eight acupuncture visits. He insisted that I complete all eight.

I can tell you I am at least 75 to 80% better and am delighted. All of the rehab and steroid shots did not come close to what he did for me. I highly recommend using Dr. Yeh, it worked!

Thank you, sir,

David Podany Sr.

To Whom It May Concern:

My name is Gloria Stout. My husband, George and I have been treated and helped tremendously by Dr. Jane Yeh of the Dallas Acupuncture Clinic. I went first a couple of years ago because I had intense pain in my neck. I had been to many doctors and they all said that they couldn't find anything wrong that it was just probably stress. I took pain medication every day and was in constant pain. I then went to Dr. Yeh. She treated me and I have had no more pain. I felt like it was a miracle! I had that pain for 20 years and now finally, it was really gone.

Then my husband started having a lot of pain in his hand and arm to the point where he could not work anymore. Again the Drs. weren't sure but thought it was carpal tunnel and wanted to operate. My husband then went to acupuncture and after being treated, he is doing much, much better. The pain is gone and he is able to use his hand and arm again.

Dr. Yeh provides experience, expertise and I would recommend anyone to see if acupuncture will work for them, with her. It has certainly worked for us!!!

Sincerely,

George and Gloria Stout

I have also suffered from back and neck pain from time to time due to degenerative disc disease and Dr. Jane has provided quick relief for those symptoms as well.

Dr. Jane Yeh is a very dedicated health care provider. She makes every effort to be available to accommodate your schedule and ensure that you can have your treatments. She charges a reasonable fee compared to other providers which helps make the treatment more affordable. She and her husband are very caring of their patients and committed to improving the quality of your health.

I would highly recommend this form of treatment for people who are suffering severe menopausal symptoms and who are unable to take replacement hormones or who choose to find an alternative to medication therapy. I have also referred several clients to Dr. Jane and everyone has been pleased. They have sought treatment for hip pain, sinus problems, and sleep problems and all have reported improvement in symptoms.

Most sincerely,

Ann

To Whom It May Concern:

I was diagnosed with breast cancer in 2009 and had to stop the hormone replacement therapy that I had taken since 1995. I immediately developed severe menopausal symptoms which included significant hot flashes, insomnia, and fatigue. Prior to this I would fall asleep within 5 minutes of my head hitting the pillow and sleep a deep restful sleep all night. I tried various sleep medications that were prescribed by my doctors which helped some but I did not like the side effects of these medications. I would still wake up during the night with 3-4 hot flashes that interrupted my sleep, I also was having between 10-12 hot flashes throughout the day. I also tried Venlafaxine, the generic of Effexor which is known to be helpful for hot flashes. It did help the hot flashes but the other side effects of nausea, blurred vision, and foginess were intolerable.

I had done some research and found that The National Cancer Institute had done some studies comparing acupuncture to these other medication remedies for the treatment of hot flashes and the results were quite impressive for acupuncture. I also read a study by Dr. Eleanor M. Walker who is the director of Breast Radiation oncology at Henry Ford Hospital in Detroit, Michigan and she pointed out that there was a large body of data that demonstrated the benefits of acupuncture in menopausal women.

I decided to try this form of treatment and did some extensive research on acupuncture providers. I selected Dr. Jane Yeh and her husband Dr. Yung Yeh. Dr. Jane recommended a series of 30 treatments as often as my schedule permitted. She explained that daily treatments would be optimal. Although I was rather skeptical I started these treatments. I went daily for almost 2 1/2 weeks and then 2- 3 times a week for the remainder of the treatments. Within the few treatments I noticed significant improvement in my sleep. I could fall asleep more quickly and had a deeper quality to my sleep. I woke up feeling rested again! I also started to experience a decrease in the hot flashes. They were less severe and occurred with less frequency, going from 10-12 down to 4 a day. I progressed to the point where I had no hot flashes and felt more like myself in terms of energy, focus, and a sense of well-being.

Because my case had been so severe Dr. Jane recommended that I continue once a week treatments for an additional month. I then took a break for 7-8 weeks and the hot flashes gradually started to return although much less severe and fewer overall.

Now I feel best when I have one weekly acupuncture treatment a week although I can skip a few weeks and not have a return of symptoms.

My Name is Jean, I was attacked by the Shingles Virus in January, 2009. I went to my doctor and was informed that there was no cure. My doctor prescribed pain medicine and let me know that when the sores from the virus cleared up the pain should go away, however, there was a chance that it could last longer.

The pain and the sores were on the left side of head, including my ear. After several weeks the sores did clear up, however, the pain did not go away. It only got worse. The pain that was just on the left side of my head had now spread over the whole back of my head and neck. I have not had a "pain-free" day in over 5 years.

In the last 5 years I have seen other professionals in hopes of relieving the pain. I went to a neurologist who killed many nerves in my head; that did not work. We tried getting a shingle shot; that did not work.

I have been on pain medicine for 5 years. It does not take all the pain away, it only makes it tolerable. I have to take heavy duty sleep aides along with my pain medicine in order to get a few hours of sleep.

Then Medicare decided I no longer needed my pain medicine. My family & I decided we would try Acupuncture. We did not know a whole lot about the procedures, but we did know people that were helped a great deal by the procedure. Dr. Yeh was recommended by a friend of my daughters, so I made an appointment. What did I have to lose!

I had my first Acupuncture treatment with Dr. Yeh on July 03, 2014. I have received 20 treatments as of today. The results have been wonderful. 90% of my pain is gone!!! It was not immediate, but it gets better with every treatment. I still have pain in the area around my left ear, (which is the area that the shingle virus attacked first & worst), but I am very hopeful that it too will go away!

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN:

In February 2011, I contacted Dr. Jane Yeh of the Dallas Acupuncture and Nasal Treatment Center to inquire about treatment for pain from a long-lasting case of Shingles. I came down with the Shingles in June of 2009. I endured such extreme pain and the medical doctors could only mask the pain. Their only offer of any kind of relief was Pain Management Treatment which required addictive drugs and no promise of relief. I was taking so many pain pills that some days I couldn't function. Some days I was not able to drive my car and go to work. My employer suggested that I contact our insurance company to inquire of treatment through acupuncture. I did so and was given Dr. Jane's name as the best in the area.

My Shingles was located in the top of my head and the right side of my face -what was termed "the Mask". My whole right side of face and head had no feeling, except the deep nerve damage. I still had lesions in my hair when I went to Dr. Jane. The pain was unbearable and I had lost hope of any type of life. I had such painful headaches. I had been told by my medical doctors that my nerves might eventually rejuvenate, but they could not promise anything. The longer I experienced the pain, they told me the less likelihood that the pain would ever go away. After just 6 treatments with Dr. Jane, the pain was gone. I did experience some pressure in my forehead and the bridge of my nose - but no pain. My right eye was still swollen from the 20 months of pain and pressure. Dr. Jane, began to work on my eye area with infrared heat. I noticed every day that I had treatment that I felt better in some area of my body. I only wish that someone had told me about Dr. Jane many months before in order that I would not have had to endure those long months of the worst pain in my life.

I highly recommend Dr. Jane for her assistance to me when I most needed it. She gave me a pain free life again and hope that I will continue to have pain free tomorrows. I have already recommended her to several people with Shingles, and other painful problems.

Finding Dr. Jane and her clinic proved to be one of the best things in my life. Her treatment and her method of treating the Shingles has renewed my health and my life.

Sincerely,

Anita Smith

I approached the Dallas Acupuncture Clinic with high hopes and underwent a new experience. I was suffering from TMJ and Migraines, and Jane Yeh corrected both swiftly. I was sceptical at first, because I am a frequent migrain sufferer as well as a person of many other muscular issues, but after the first session on just my jaw I noticed a significant difference. I loved her persistence and drive to help correct my issues, and how friendly she was. I am very afraid of needles but they are virtually painless, at least her approach is, and I recommend this type of treatment to anyone suffering from any type of physical issue. After only 5 Treatments My pain has disappeared and my range of motion has returned. Her facility is very quiet and clean, she is very knowledgeable, and myself as a younger person now believe in acupuncture as a sound way to correct pain in the body. I find it peaceful and healing and think that everyone should try at least three times or more, because of the instant gratification generation, and then they will see the difference. Her building isn't hard to find and her hours are convenient, and hopefully coming from a twenty one year old I can enlighten some people to try acupuncture as a way of pain relief.

Sincerely, Kayla D.

I am a 65 year old woman who has gone through right hip replacement; left hip femur repair; hammertoe & bunion surgery; double knee replacement a little over a year ago and then I was diagnosed with degenerative disc disease with Spondylolisthesis and Spinal Stenosis. This final operation of double knee replacement left me in worse condition than before. I had a severe limp. It made it difficult to walk long distances - having to use a cane. I was really discouraged. The doctors would only say, "It will take time!" That doesn't do much for how bad I felt; how tired I would get; and how tired I was of the pain. Then I met Dr. Yung Yeh and my life changed dramatically! I highly recommend him. I can walk two miles a day. I can go up and down steps. I have very little pain and I feel great! The fact that I can get up and down from the commode without support is amazing. So many little things that are a part of everyday life that become so hard to do and now "I am back to normal" and it is wonderful!

Yea Dr. Yeh!!

Dear Dr. Yung Yeh and Dr. Jane Yeh,

I want to thank so much for the kindness and care that you have given to me and my husband. I came to you about two months ago. I had pain in the area of my uterus and ovaries. Other doctors had told me that the pain was from endometriosis and/or adenomyosis. I have a history of endometriosis and it tends to reoccur. I had a laparoscopy to treat the growth of endometrial cells outside of my uterus and on my ovaries in 2001 and in 2004. I gave birth to our girls in 2004 and 2006. I was okay during the years that I was pregnant and breastfeeding. Then about two years ago, I started spotting between periods, felt more and more pain during ovulation, and then progressed feeling some level of pain every day. The pain got to be more than I could handle. My gynecologist told me that my options were to try birth control, endometrial ablation, or a hysterectomy. I tried changing my diet to include more healthy food, reducing my fat and sugar intake, and exercising. I lost about 5-7 pounds, but I still felt pain so I tried birth control for four months. The side effects of the medication were more bothersome than the pain I felt before taking the pills.

I decided to stop and try acupuncture. It worked for a friend of mine. She was the only female that I knew that had reproductive problems, tried acupuncture, now she does not need to take medication, and she does not feel any pain anymore. I figured it worked for her, so I wanted to give it a try.

I felt sore after my first few treatments. I was comforted to know that it was normal because circulation was being promoted. This was helping to heal the growth of the displaced endometrial cells and/or scar tissue. After two weeks of treatment, my pain was cut in half. After one month of treatment, my pain was completely gone I have felt almost no cramps with my periods and my periods have been lighter as well. After each treatment I felt so relaxed. I was relaxed more than if I would have had a massage.

Dr. Yung Yeh and Jane Yeh helped to reduce the size of whatever was on, in, or around my uterus and ovaries with their acupuncture and acupressure techniques. Their treatments have been the only help to relieve my pain completely. I will always be grateful to them for that. Now I have to do my part and take care of my body consistently every day. I plan to continue to eat healthy, exercise, and relax every day. If my symptoms return, I plan to go back to the Yehs' for treatment or just for regular maintenance.

I received a water candle fountain as a Christmas present. I have placed it on my nightstand next to our bed. Now when I turn it on and lay down to relax, I will always think of the Yeh's and remember the music that was played in the treatment rooms. I would recommend anyone to try acupuncture. I believe that it can help with any condition, especially reproductive conditions.

God bless you, Jennifer
